Dear Sirs.-

Having no knowledge of your street address, yet I am writing to you for information and I trust that you will receive this communication and that you will favor me with a reply.

I have long been interested in the hobby of coin collecting and am now endeavoring to make a collection for myself, but unfortunately have not been able to obtain a complete list of the coins of the different countries up to the present time. If you could advise me where to apply for a book or catalogue of this description which fully describes and illustrates the different coins, I would be very pleased to receive the information.

Thanking you in anticipation, I am

Yours truly,

A.J.Locke,

Dear Sir:

In response to your letter of February 22nd, there is no such book as you desire obtainable. The nearest approach to it is the Scott catalogue of the Silver and Copper Coins of the World. I think you can secure a copy of this from Mr. Rudolf Kohler, 70 Fifth Avenue, New York.

Do you know of the Numismatist? I am sending you a sample under separate cover. Perhaps you may find it worth while to subscribe to it.

Membership in our Society would entitle you to receive our publications and would cost Five Dollars annually. If you care to consider this suggestion, I would be very glad to propose your name.

Very truly yours,

Secretary
